Subscription-based medical model PROFITS from perpetual sickness and vaccine compliance

Vaccines, traditionally regarded as effective immunological products conveying lifelong immunity, have devolved into yearly subscriptions of patchwork science, where developers guess influenza strains and tweak mRNA code each season while failing to provide a product that actually conveys lasting immunity. Old vaccines promise immunity to a specific infectious disease, but today's COVID-19 and influenza vaccines do nothing except provide revenue for the pharmaceutical industry year-after-year.

Short-sighted patients, stuck getting their sixth, seventh, and eighth booster, are told to keep getting boosters anyway - an act of stupid compliance that completely disregards the actual purpose of immunization. If a product fails once, why keep doing the same thing over and over again? If a product is not effective by the sixth, seventh, and eighth dose, then what the hell is wrong with healthcare professionals and patients like Donald Trump, who continue to follow along? Health authorities know the other health issues that are being caused by these failed biologics and gene therapies. At what point do patients become the next victim of myocarditis, blood clots, etc? Have they ever wondered that their alleged "need" for more boosters is because the vaccines are making their immune system weak in the first place?

Key points:

- Pharmaceutical companies have transitioned to a profitable "subscription model" for vaccines that requires frequent boosters despite waning effectiveness.

- Real-world evidence, including breakthrough infections in highly-vaccinated leaders, contradicts official claims of vaccine safety and efficacy.

- Serious and permanent health risks, including heart damage and a potential link to aggressive cancers, are being ignored in the pursuit of mass vaccination.

- A system of censorship and collusion between government agencies and big tech suppresses dissenting medical opinions and conceals data on adverse events.

A legacy of fraud and failing products

The architect of this ongoing booster campaign, Pfizer, is no stranger to legal repercussions. The company agreed to pay $2.3 billion in the largest healthcare fraud settlement in history, a fact that should give any consumer pause. This is the same company whose CEO, Albert Bourla, boldly claimed the COVID-19 vaccine was 100 percent effective. Yet, despite being vaccinated and boosted multiple times, Bourla tested positive for COVID-19 twice in a single year. He is not an isolated case. The narrative of a protective vaccine crumbles under the weight of real-world evidence, including US Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin and President Joe Biden, both fully vaccinated and boosted, also contracting COVID twice in a year. When the very individuals championing these products cannot rely on them for protection, one must question what the true purpose of the endless boosters really is. The recent partnership between Pfizer and Marvel to create a comic book promoting boosters feels less like public health and more like a desperate marketing stunt amid a failed vaccination rollout.

The hidden toll of permanent health damage

While the promised protection evaporates, the potential for harm increases with each dose. We're talking about harm to the immune system and every other organ, as mRNA-encoded spike proteins do not readily disintegrate, but actually congregate in distal organs, causing unpredictable and ongoing damage.

The heart damage caused by these injections is not a minor or temporary issue; it is permanent and can lead to lifelong complications. Myocarditis and arrhythmia scar the heart permanently, creating a weakened organ that cannot perform strenuous activities. Analysis by researchers in Germany confirms that the spike protein is physically present in the heart, and studies show ongoing heart damage months after vaccination, with MRIs "lighting up like Christmas trees."

This is not theoretical. Medical professionals report seeing patients suffering from heart damage for over a year directly linked to these injections. The tragic, unexplained deaths of young, healthy individuals are becoming too common. Consider the case of a 17-year-old daughter of a congressman who died in her sleep after vaccination. When a perfectly healthy teenager dies with no clear cause, and the leading cause of death in some regions is listed as "unknown," it is not conspiracy theory to ask difficult questions. The system is failing to provide answers.

A rigged system of censorship and control

Why is this information not on the front page of every newspaper? The system appears rigged to ensure the public remains uninformed and compliant. Official data from the V-safe program, obtained by Children's Health Defense only after lawsuits against the CDC, revealed that out of ten million users, 3.3 million reported adverse effects, with over 770,000 requiring medical attention. This is not the picture of safety we are sold. Furthermore, senior researchers like Dr. Ute Kruger are sounding the alarm over a disturbing link between COVID-19 vaccines and fast-growing, aggressive cancers. Instead of investigating these claims, the response has been one of suppression.

There is a chilling, coordinated effort to control the narrative. Documentation shows government agencies like the CDC and HHS collaborating with social media platforms on propaganda and quid pro quo arrangements. Top scholars and Nobel Prize winners are being told to remain silent. This move toward totalitarianism, where dissenting voices are threatened with arrest, as suggested in California, is a page taken directly from the playbook of communist regimes. They are not protecting public health; they are protecting a profitable narrative. In the end, if we continue to roll up our sleeves, the only thing getting boosted is the pharmaceutical industry's balance sheets, while the health of the public is left in decline and gross medical fraud and malpractice continues, continuing a silent holocaust.

It's time to end the subscription-based vaccine programs and restore scientific integrity.
